SICKO SCHOOL CARETAKER BONKED LOAF OF BREAD

By BRAD CHADWICK

A SICK caretaker bonked a loaf of bread during a revolting rampage in a school canteen kitchen.

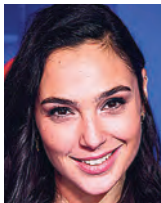

Giovanni Impellizzari filmed himself performing other vile and unhygienic acts, many of which are too upsetting to describe in a family newspaper.

He then posted the depraved footage on social media.

Gadot shows Hamas horror to Hollywood

ISRAELI actress Gal Gadot is planning a Hollywood screening to show footage of the Hamas terror attack atrocities committed during the October 7 invasion of Israel.

A 47-minute video, provided by the Israeli Defence forces, will be aired to an audience of celebrities and personalities in Los Angeles and New York this week.

Oscar-winning director Guy Nattiv, who spearheaded the initiative, confirmed that Wonder Woman beauty Gadot and her husband, Yaron Varsano, helped make this possible.

The video serves as a damning record of the atrocities perpetrated by Hamas terrorists against Israeli communities on the Gaza border on October 7, which saw the killing of 1,400 people and kidnapping of 240 hostages.

Groceries up another 9.7%

GROCERY price inflation has fallen to single digits for the first time in 16 months, figures show.

Prices across grocers were 9.7% higher than a year ago over the four weeks to October 29, down from the previous month's 11%.

The figure peaked at 17.5% in March, and it's the first time the figure has fallen below 10% since July last year.

However, consumers are only seeing price falls in a limited number of categories, including butter, dried pasta and milk, according to Kantar's data.

THE KING'S YAWN FEST

IN his first King's Speech as monarch, Charles III was made to read out a document duller than the Exeter telephone directory.

After paying tribute to his "darling mother, the late Queen", long-term champion of green causes Charles said the new fossil fuel sites will support the country's transition to net zero by 2050 "without adding undue burdens on households".

Insiders said the King would have uttered the words "through gritted teeth".

With a general election expected next year, Prime Minister Rishi Sunak – who writes the Speech – put criminal justice laws at the centre of the first King's Speech in seven decades.

Smokefree

But there was little in the way of surprises in what was also the first time Mr Sunak was setting out his legislative priorities since entering No 10 despite trying to portray himself as a change candidate after 13 years of Tory rule and the chaos under Boris Johnson and Liz Truss.

Already announced plans to crack down on young people vaping and creating a "smokefree generation" by banning tobacco sales to anyone who turns 14 this year or younger featured.

The package of 20 Bills and a draft includes proposals to:

- Subject streaming giants to a new video-on-demand code that will apply similar standards to those enforced on television.

- Ban the creation of new leasehold houses in England and Wales.

- Ending no-fault evictions – but not until a new court process is in place.

- Pave the way for the introduction of self-driving cars and buses on UK roads.

- Permanently ban the live export of livestock for slaughter and fattening.

- Crack down on the "scourge" of unlicensed pedicab rickshaw, operators in London.

Mr Sunak insisted there are "clear" results from the five priorities he set for the nation to judge him on.

He acknowledged there is "more to do" on cutting NHS waiting lists, but insisted he had "made progress".

But he said inflation is down and that the economy is growing – albeit minimally as the Bank warns of a year of stagnation.

He insisted that "we are stopping the boats", arguing that crossings are down on this time last year – though more than 26,600 people have still made it across the Channel unauthorised.

...AND MORE BORES HERE

KING-hating nutjobs gathered outside Parliament to blather about ditching the monarchy as His Majesty arrived.

Loud boos rang out from hundreds of Republic protesters – many suspected of being vegans – as they chanted "not my king" and "down with the crown" as the King arrived in his royal carriage.

Veteran bore Peter Tatchell joined the protest and described the opening of Parliament as an "absurd contradiction" that is "not compatible with democracy".

The 71-year-old bleated: "We want a democratically elected head of state, voted for by the people and accountable to the people, it is what most modern democracies have."

"Monarchy is an anachronism, it's time we had a democratically-elected head of state."

100 injured as storm hits cruise

A CRUISE ship has returned to the UK after 100 passengers were injured in a storm off western France.

The Spirit of Discovery veered to one side during a safety move on Saturday in the Bay of Biscay as bad weather hit.

Most of the injuries were minor but five people needed medical treatment, cruise company Saga said.

The ship docked in Portsmouth, with passengers disembarking on Tuesday morning.

The ship departed for the Canary Islands on October 24 with about 1,000 people on board.

The first 10 days of the 14-day planned cruise ran smoothly, with Las Palmas as the final stop.

But the crew instead tried to head for Coruña in Spain after news of a storm.

But the port was closed so it headed to the UK.

However, while in the Bay of Biscay – a notoriously rough area – the storm hit and the ship's safety system kicked in, causing it to veer to the left and effectively stop.

House prices back on rise

THE AVERAGE UK house price jumped by around £3,000 month-on-month in October – marking the first monthly increase since March – according to Halifax.

The bank said house prices rose by 1.1% on average in October, compared to a fall of 0.3% in September.

A low supply of homes for sale is likely to have strengthened prices in the short term, Halifax said.

Property values in October were typically lower than a year earlier and Halifax does not expect to see an overall growth in house prices until 2025.

The typical UK home was valued at £281,974 in October, up by about £3,000 on the previous month.

CHRISTMAS? MY ARSE!

By ANNE COATES news@sundaysport.co.uk

NOTHING celebrates the birth of Our Lord Jesus Christ quite like a celeb hanger-on with her arse decked out in fairy lights...

Reality star Kendall Jenner is being featured in a new promo for the Christmas collection from French label Jacquemus.

The fashion house announced the collaboration on Insta and shared a pic of Kendall's trumper.

Strewn across her derriere was a string of Christmas lights and the daring photo was captioned: "Guirlande with @kendalljenner, the holiday collection - out tomorrow!"

The Americans say "holiday" when they mean "Christmas" - just like they say "vacation" to describe holiday.

This is because most of them have had their brains shot out and those remaining unshot are on drugs.

An onlooker said: "I hope she unplugged them before she went for a shit, or else she could have electrocuted her puckered bumhole."

The advertisement comes after Kendall celebrated her 28th birthday wearing much more than just a string of Christmas decor.

In a private birthday bash she was joined by sister Kylie and model pal Hailey Bieber for her special day.

Spa shock for Tom's family

THE family of Capt Sir Tom Moore have lost a planning application appeal against the demolition of an unauthorised home spa in their garden.

The fundraiser's daughter, Hannah Ingram-Moore, and her husband had appealed the family home and a Grade II listed building in Marston Moretaine.

Crown actress hit hard by Di death scenes

THE Crown star Elizabeth Debicki, who plays Princess Di in the Netflix series, said she found filming the scenes in the run-up to her death 'heavy and very manic, and incredibly invasive'.

Speaking ahead of the launch of series six of the royal drama next week, the 33-year-old (above) said: "It was really difficult to recreate."

"At times it's almost like an animalistic response to being pursued, by that many actors playing the Press, because there's nowhere you can go and you only have to be in a situation like that for a minute before you realise it is completely unbearable."

The Aussie actress said filming Diana's final 24 hours had been 'very demanding', adding: "I think it's going to be really interesting to see how people respond to the show."

Make love not war says Arnie

HOLLYWOOD star Arnold Schwarzenegger said 'love in the end always wins' as he collected an award of courage for his long-term advocacy against antisemitism and bigotry.

The Terminator actor, 76, made the comments during the Holocaust Museum's annual gala in Los Angeles, in which host Melissa Rivers told the audience 'October 7 was the deadliest massacre of Jews since the Holocaust' amid the Israel-Hamas war.

Schwarzenegger, the son of a Nazi soldier, said "we have to speak out" – in a nod to the attacks in Israel and Palestine.

"The more we speak out about that issue, the better it is, so every day you have to talk about it... over and over again because we cannot let them get away with these lies and with this hatred", he said.

"We have to talk to them and talk them down and let them know that the only way to go is through love."

Jewish man killed after march scuffle

A 69-YEAR-OLD Jewish man died after falling and hitting his head during an altercation with pro-Palestinian protesters.

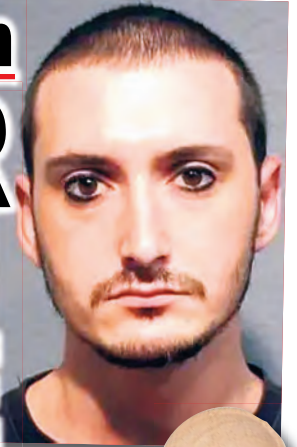

Paul Kessler succumbed to injuries sustained on Sunday in Los Angeles and authorities are investigating his death as a possible hate crime.

Mr Kessler, an Israel supporter, was involved in a scuffle with pro-Palestinian protesters when he suffered a head injury during the confrontation, authorities and family friends said.

An autopsy conducted on Monday determined Mr Kessler's manner of death was a homicide, and the cause of death was blunt force head injury, the sheriff's office said.

It was reported Mr Kessler was struck in the head before he was knocked over.

A DIRTY janitor is facing a raft of charges after he filmed himself wiping his willy on bread in a school cafeteria.

Giovanni Impellizzari contaminated food and utensils at Elizabeth Moore School in Upper Deerfield Township, New Jersey, with saliva, urine and faeces.

The 25-year-old beast shot video of himself masturbating and urinating on cafeteria bowls as well as spitting on food and showing a wooden spoon up his arse!

Impellizzari filmed himself carrying out the repulsive acts inside the school and then posted the footage to Telegram, an online social media platform.

He was nabbed by police after a user took screenshots of the vile footage and contacted law enforcement.

Impellizzari, says the affidavit, performed sex acts with items from the school and "did things that would endanger the well-being of students at the school".

Anus

Impellizzari wiped his penis, testicles and anus with various utensils and items from the school.

The video also allegedly shows Impellizzari furiously masturbating and urinating into kitchen bowls.

Video also showed Impellizzari wiping his private parts and anus with bread.

He also spat on the bread before putting the food back in the container to be later served to children at the school.

Police said they are still trying to pinpoint when the alleged acts took place.

Impellizzari, who has worked with the school since 2019, has been charged with aggravated assault and tampering with food at the school.

Cumberland County Prosecutor's Office (CCPO) said authorities are collecting bodily fluids from Impellizzari to determine whether there are any potential risks of infectious disease transmission for those who consumed food at the school.

The CCPO advised parents to contact their health care provider if they suspect that their kids have got ill.

'Party mum' denies teen sex charges

A WOMAN known as the "party mum" has pleaded not guilty to 63 counts after she was accused of throwing parties for teenagers and encouraging them to have sex.

Shannon O'Connor, 49 (above), pleaded not guilty to the separate charges, which include endangering the health of a child, sexual battery and furnishing alcohol to a minor.

She was initially charged with 39 counts in October 2021 by the Santa Clara County District Attorney's Office.

O'Connor is now facing more charges as additional crimes against minors were uncovered during an ongoing investigation.

If convicted, she could face up to 31 years in prison.

She also refused a plea deal that would have sent her to jail for 17 years.

Prosecutors allege O'Connor of Los Gatos, California, hosted boozy sex parties for teenagers – including her own teen sons – behind her husband's back in 2020 and 2021.

A date for her trial will be set next month.

A DIRTY old man furiously masturbated in the middle of the day then walked through a city centre with his Johnson out.

Alan Burt, 70, from Falmouth, appeared at Truro Crown Court for sentence having pleaded guilty to outraging public decency, criminal damage and cannabis possession.

Prosecuting the case, Katie Churcher described how on June 25 last year Burt was sat on a bench on Lemon Quay, Truro, at around 3pm. The area was busy with shoppers and families and he was seen with his right hand shoved down his trousers and masturbating.

People then saw him get up and walk through Lemon Quay with his cock on show.

Police arrived and arrested Burt and officers found 1.8g of weed on him.

Burt was sentenced to a 24-month community order with a rehabilitation activity requirement.

Woke mob come after our feathered friends NOW BIRDS ARE RACIST

Ain't no
black in the Union...
QUACK!

WHAT'S racist today?

Well, today, BIRDS are racist! Specifically, dozens of bird names have been targeted by the woke mob, who find the monikers "problematic".

Several bird species in the US and Canada will receive new names based on their habitats and traits rather than people's names, the American Ornithological Society announced.

After years of controversy, the society will remove all human names for bird species, including those linked to people with racist histories.

Their aim is to create "an inclusive environment for bird-watching fans".

Seventy to 80 birds will be renamed. "Exclusionary naming conventions developed in the 1800s, clouded by racism and misogyny, don't work for us today, and the time has come for us to transform this process and redirect the focus to the birds, where it belongs," the society's CEO, Judith Scarl, said.

By ERIN WILSON
news@sundaysport.co.uk

Birds that will be renamed include Wilson's warbler and Wilson's snipe – both named after 19th Century naturalist Alexander Wilson.

Thick-billed

In 2020, the American Ornithological Society renamed a bird named after a Confederate Army general, John P. McCown, as the thick-billed longspur.

The AOS said it will create a new committee to oversee the assignment of the new bird names, adding: "This committee will broaden participation by including a diverse representation of people with expertise in the social sciences, ornithology, communications and taxonomy," the AOS said in a statement.

The organisation said these "momentous decisions" were made to change "harmful and exclusionary" names.

Earlier this year the National Audubon Society decided to retain its name despite a push for a change.

DUTCH WELCOME FEWER BRITS

BRITS are deserting Amsterdam as authorities crack down on boozy, drugged-up city breaks.

Arrivals from Britain to the Netherlands have plunged by 22% compared with 2019 after the tourism board ordered party animals to stay away and bombarded UK men aged 18-35 with online ads showing louts being dealt with by Dutch police.

While most tourist boards would be in a spin over the visitor drop, the Netherlands celebrated the fall in UK visitors at the World Travel and Tourism Council annual conference.

There's newt we can do about it!

A TERRIFIED householder called 999 when they saw a NEWT in their house.

The amphibian-related panic was revealed by Cambridgeshire Police as the force highlighted the problem of non-urgent calls to the emergency services.

Officers also reminded the public that the police are not there to advise on "safe places to park in Peterborough".

The Cambridgeshire force was taking part in a national drive to raise awareness of the work of police call-handlers.

While many callers were genuinely in need of police assistance or advice the service pointed out that one caller from Brampton, Cambs, who spotted what they called a "lizard" was probably not one of them.

Officers told the caller to put it back outside.

Simpsons choke gag killed off

A LONG-running gag from The Simpsons has been killed off by political correctness.

Homer Simpson has announced he will no longer wring scamp son Bart's neck.

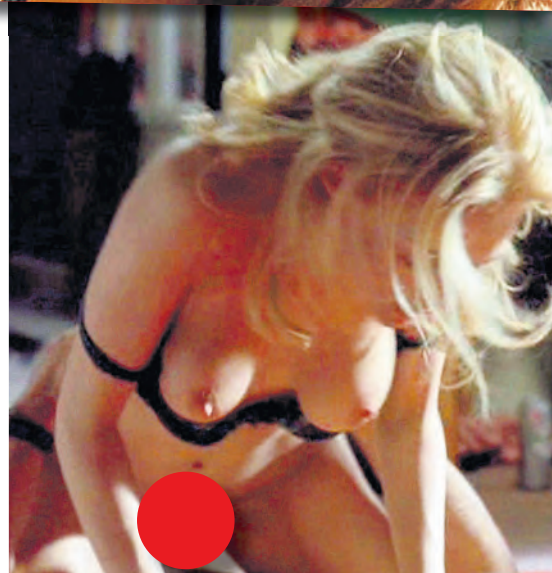

The running joke in the 34-year-old series has involved Homer reprimanding his mischievous child by squeezing his neck tightly until Bart's eyes bulge and his tongue sticks out (above).

Despite being one of the most recognisable features of Homer and Bart's father-son dynamic, the action has often been criticised for its "brutality".

But in the third episode of season 35, titled McMansion & Wife, Homer declares he's changed his ways when he and wife Marge visit a new neighbour.

When Homer shakes the neighbour's hand, the new character remarks how firm Homer's grip is.

"See, Marge, strangling the boy paid off," Homer remarks, before adding, "Just kidding, I don't do that anymore. Times have changed."

Dog walker's w*nk shock

A MAN taking his dog for a late night walk was shocked to see his neighbour standing in his doorway wearing only his socks and shoes.

Magistrates heard Patrick Dear was furiously masturbating when he was spotted.

Dear, 56, of Accrington, Lancs, pleaded guilty to indecent exposure and was made subject to a 12-month community order with 20 days of rehabilitation activity requirement.

He was also fined £120, must pay a £114 victim surcharge with £85 costs, and made subject to sex offender registration requirements.

Prosecutor Steve Botell said: "He appeared startled when he saw the neighbour but carried on what he was doing."

Peter King, defending, said his client had complex mental health issues and was a lonely individual.

CAUGHT AFTER FLEEING SCENE: Luis Aroyo-Lopez has distinctive gang tattoo

By BRAD CHADWICK
news@sundaysport.co.uk

A MANIAC who is accused of decapitating a female relative and fleeing the scene with her head has been arrested.

Luis Aroyo-Lopez, 24, was held in San Francisco after officers recognised him from a description of a suspect wanted for murder in nearby Santa Rosa.

The arrest comes after a frantic search for Aroyo-Lopez after Santa Rosa Police discovered a woman's decapitated body inside a house last week.

The woman's head was missing and police believe Aroyo-Lopez had taken it with him when he left the grisly scene on foot, according to the Santa Rosa Police Department.

Police have not said whether or not the victim's head has been recovered since the arrest was made.

However, authorities did say the woman – who has not yet been identified – is Aroyo-Lopez's relative, and although her relation to him has not been confirmed, it's thought to be his mother.

After he was identified as a suspect considered "armed and dangerous," police released a photograph of him, revealing his noticeable tattoo of "420" – a notorious gang inking – and a weed leaf on the left side of his head.

Aroyo-Lopez was recently released from state prison and placed on Postrelease Community Supervision.

He was formerly incarcerated for assault with a deadly weapon and weapons possession charges in an unrelated incident, police said.

"These things were so aggressive that, literally, I felt like they wanted to kill me," Matt added. "It is by far the most terrifying experience I've ever had – nothing even comes close."

Matt said he felt the first bite on his calf, and another seconds later. "I started swimming fast but the otter popped up right in front of me and I was bitten again," he added.

Matt's wife rescued him from the group of otters on a paddleboard and then took him to a nearby hospital to be treated for around 40 puncture wounds caused by the animals' teeth.

'FOOTLOOSE' KEVIN BACON BACK HOME

A PIG named Kevin Bacon that spent more than two weeks on the run is finally home, after an appeal from his namesake, film star Kevin Bacon.

Chelsea Rumbaugh brought 200lb pig home to her farm in Cumberland Township, Pennsylvania, last month, but the next day the pesky porker had dug under his pen and escaped.

Over the next two weeks, the pig spent his time roaming local woods, popping up at neighbours' homes but evading capture. Chelsea started a Facebook page to alert hunters and ask locals to help track Kevin.

The page took off and quickly had thousands of followers before Footloose actor Kevin Bacon posted on Meta's Threads app: "Bring Kevin home!"

Chelsea then decided to lace a sticky bun with benadryl in the hope that Kevin would eat it and fall asleep.

Hours later, she shared a photo of Kevin back in his pen, adding: "He's home!"

Casino vice girl beat and robbed OAP

A SEX worker beat a disabled elderly man and robbed him of £5,000 in a hotel room. Police attended a reported robbery at Caesar's Palace Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas, where they found the victim beaten and bloodied on the floor in a guest room. The victim, who uses a mobility scooter to get around, told officers "he brought a hooker to his room, and she beat and robbed him", police said. The assailant, later identified as Napria Wilson, 26 (above), had taken his wallet, he told cops at hospital. The victim said he had met Wilson on the casino floor and invited her to his room. There, he gave her £400 cash for her services, before a row over handing over more cash escalated. Wilson was arrested outside her apartment and now faces multiple charges, including attempted murder.

LOVELY Britney Spears has another hit on her hands...

The singer has been praised for her "raw and unfiltered" memoir depicting her experience of life in the spotlight and under a controversial conservatorship.

The book titled The Woman In Me was released to critical acclaim – with reviews commending the US pop star's honesty in exploring her rise and the exploitative nature of the industry.

The Telegraph's music critic Neil McCormick described it as an "extremely powerful memoir", awarding it four out of five stars.

The Guardian's Laura Snapes said the book is "not a grab-bag of tabloid revelations".

Of course, we like Britney best for her habit of stripping off. So here are some more babes who have revealed all in memoirs – and revealed all by taking their bras off.

#MY SEX FANTASY

'We both go for blondes with big boobs...'

MY favourite sexual fantasy has to be a threesome – and I'm in the process of setting one up!

I've had a few before and they were all very hot.

I'll never forget the first time – I was living in New York in my early 20s and I went to a dinner party being held by a new friend.

We had a good giggle and lots of wine, and just as I was about to leave, I had a group hug with my friend and her husband and we all lingered that little bit longer than normal.

Next thing I knew, my neck was being nuzzled and we were all kissing and there were hands everywhere!

It felt wild and frantic – we went upstairs and got on their bed and my clothes were removed quickly. I had the most intense orgasm as I was going down on her while he was pounding me from behind.

The next morning I woke up almost feeling as if it were a dream, but I just knew I had to do it again!

I have a new boyfriend now and he's never had a threesome. But we've said we are keen to explore that together.

We've put up a dating profile to ask for a hot girl to join us in the bedroom.

Luckily we both go for a similar type of woman – we like blondes with big boobs!

I'm so excited about showing him how thrilling a threesome can be.

And I just know it will bring us closer together.

Outed trans vicar kills himself after 'pursuit' by cops

A VICAR committed suicide two days after being outed for having a secret life he shared online as a "transgender curvy girl".

Married father of three F. L. "Bubba" Copeland, who was also mayor of Smiths Station, Alabama, as well as the pastor at First Baptist Church in Phenix City, shot himself in front of sheriffs who were following him after being asked to do a welfare check on him.

"He got out of the vehicle, produced a handgun, and took his own life," the sheriff's office said.

Copeland's suicide followed an exposé on a news site describing his secret life online as a transgender woman under the pseudonym Brittini Blaire Summerlin.

"Brittini" described herself online as a "transitioning transgender curvy girl, that loves smiling, clothes, and shoes!"

One of his social media profiles showed Copeland (above) in different women's outfits, including some bedroom photos of him in women's underwear.

Copeland previously said of his lifestyle: "It's a hobby to relieve stress. I'm not medically transitioning... it's a character I'm playing."

Plane w*cker victim offered free air miles

A MISERLY airline offered a woman compo of 5,000 air miles after a man furiously masturbated next to her on a flight.

The victim was flying from Orlando, Florida, to Dallas, Texas, and sat next to a man who had engaged her in casual conversation.

After telling her he was en route to visit his daughter and grandson, he asked if she wanted to have a drink.

The woman refused, and then noticed the man putting his hand in his pants shortly after.

"His fingers were up his shorts, raised all the way up to his groin area, and he fondling himself," she later said.

She captured the solo sex act on her mobile phone before getting out of her seat and alerting flight attendants, who sat her in another row.

However, the tosser was not arrested when the plane landed and the airline later offered the woman the air miles – worth about £50 – in compensation.

An Elle of an arse!

ELLE Macpherson had fans slobbering as she posed in a backless swimsuit for a racy new Instagram post.

The Australian model, 59, showcased her youthful appearance in the stunning sunset snap as she walked through the sand showing off her perfect trumper.

Captioning her post, she penned: "I feel my most beautiful when I'm in nature... when I'm framed by the backdrop of nature, the wind in my hair, the sun caressing my back, the sunlight pouring down."

"Or when my face is met by the beautiful morning light."

One admirer said: "I'd happily lick the sand out of her crack. You only need say the word, Elle."

A FORMER teaching assistant is accused of sucking off a student and sending him pictures of her MINGE.

Kristin Rose Kirker, 27, is currently facing two counts of having sexual intercourse with a student, in a relationship that went on for an extended period of time.

According to court records, Kirker engaged in a sexual and inappropriate relationship with the student in spring and continued seeing the lad, who was below the age of 18, throughout the summer break.

Kelly School District authorities in Benton, Missouri, have since confirmed Kirker is no longer employed with the district.

Bradley J. Kolwyck, PhD, superintendent of schools at Scott County R-IV School District, released a statement explaining why he can't release the finer details of the case.

"This is a personnel matter, and I cannot speak of the specifics of the situation. I can, however, tell you that we take allegations of employee misconduct seriously and act immediately to ensure the wellbeing of pupils and staff," Kolwyck said.

"We are cooperating with law enforcement

By TOM DWIGHT
news@sundaysport.co.uk

and appreciate their prompt assistance with this matter."

According to records, the first sexual incident took place when the victim – who plays on the school baseball team – went to Kirker's classroom and asked for oral sex.

Kirker allegedly then performed oral sex on the victim, and a few weeks later she is said to have texted him to see if he was home alone.

She then went over to his home, where she allegedly performed oral sex on the victim again and then engaged in sexual intercourse.

Police also claim she admitted to sending nude images of herself, receiving them from the boy, performing oral sex in her classroom, and going to his for sex.

Idiots! Idiots everywhere!

TOSS a feather into the air and watch where it falls.

It likely won't get too far, and when it does land, you can be guaranteed it will never be more than 12ft away from an idiot.

Take the last couple of weeks...

We've been reading, watching and listening to a very heart-wrenching Sir Trevor McDonut-style "and finally" story about the world's loneliest sheep.

By all accounts, even though nobody actually knows for sure, Woolly had been stranded at the bottom of a cliff face for at least two years.

Imagine... two years, on your own, in Scotland...

That Woolly survived because there was plenty of grazing is, if true, quite remarkable.

But because the modern human being seems now hardwired to act like a total f**king berk anytime an animal is involved, it's not hard to guess what happened next.

Four enterprising farming types no doubt encouraged by lesser-known TV channels used winches to trammel down the cliff and eventually rescue the ewe, who with a lack of shearing was by then resembling Queen's Brian May – although not quite as embarrassingly bad as the guitar bither's bonce.

They returned triumphantly to the mainland where their compassionate derring-do was hailed by locals and outsiders alike.

Woolly – now renamed Fiona, and having had a badly needed trim – was placed into a petting zoo which is closed to the public for the winter, giving her a healthy five months to adjust to her new surroundings before the kiddies are let back in.

Nutters

But then the nutters arrived.

Yes, the now drearily expected bunch of halfwits in beards and green hair and – what is it with these weirdos and their T-shirts? – yes, weird T-shirts advertising themselves as Animal Rising.

When asked what they wanted, and when did they want it, instead of just screaming "now!" like they normally do and then bursting into tears, they shouted "an animal sanctuary!"

Which, is, er... EXACTLY what Woolly/Fiona has been placed in, but of which unless they thoroughly approve like the 2023 Attenborough 2.0s they consider themselves to be, will instead be condemned as an animal concentration camp.

You'd think Animal Rising might be glad that an abattoir is not currently tasked with using Woolly/Fiona to make one of those mouthwatering elephant legs we see twirling around in the front windows of kebab shops.

But no, the Unwashed People's Republic of Sheep just HAD to slag off the animal's newly found freedom because they didn't think of it first.

Dithering

Meanwhile, we've got Scotland Yard dithering over whether or not protests should be allowed near the Cenotaph this coming Remembrance Sunday weekend.

They are as ever bafflingly concerned about idiots in T-shirts and green hair rather than the men and women who have died for their country.

In the meantime, we borrow to spend squillions we don't have and can't afford on cycle lanes that cyclists don't use.

Encourage walking to work in a country beset by hills and bogged with rain.

Put up useless windmills that sometimes don't work even when the wind blows.

In short, we bend over backwards for these morons and still they demand more.

Fair enough.

How about a large portion of F**K RIGHT OFF?

Nurse accused of murdering more patients

TWO more victims have been added to the death toll of a nurse accused of killing her patients.

Heather Pressdee, 41 (above), has now been accused of murder in the deaths of four patients, and hit with 17 counts of attempted murder for allegedly giving lethal doses of insulin to numerous patients at different care homes where she worked, Pennsylvania Attorney General Michelle Henry said.

In total, Pressdee, has been charged with mistreating 22 patients, ranging in age from 43 to 104, since 2020.

In all, 17 patients have died, although she has not been charged in those deaths.

"The allegations against Ms. Pressdee are disturbing. It is hard to comprehend how a nurse, trusted to care for her patients, could choose to deliberately and systematically harm them," Henry said.

Pressdee's nursing licence was suspended earlier this year after she was arrested in May for murder in the deaths of two patients.

Raised wreck's £16bn treasure

THE South American nation of Colombia is set to raise a wreck that could contain £16bn in GOLD!

President Gustavo Petro ordered his administration to exhume the "holy grail of shipwrecks", the Spanish galleon San José, from the floor of the Caribbean Sea as soon as possible.

Petro wants to bring the 62-gun, three-masted ship to the surface before his term is up in 2026 and has requested a public-private partnership be formed to see it through, Minister of Culture Juan David Correa said.

"This is one of the priorities for the Petro administration," he said.

"The president has told us to pick up the pace."

But mystery surrounds the ownership of the massive trove of gold, silver and emeralds, according to a lawsuit.

The US company that found the wreck is suing the government in Colombia for half the treasure.

HANG on to your hats – telly watchdogs reckon some of the most EXPLICIT sex to appear on British TV is BRILLIANT!

Prodnotes at telly watchdog Ofcom say that sex on television has been brought into the modern era by replacing "traditional male attitudes" with female empowerment.

And they say that the XXX BBC series Normal People is a fine example.

The 2020 mini-series starring Paul Mescal and the gorgeous Daisy Edgar Jones was crammed with high-class grot and featured boobs, fannies and even cocks.

Positive

Ofcom's study into attitudes towards sex and violence on screen singled out Mescal's performance as Connell in Normal People as an example of how sex scenes have improved.

"Both males and females welcome the introduction of more enlightened depictions of sex scenes and portrayals of sexual relationships."

"Male participants were conscious that traditional male attitudes are no longer widely acceptable through uncritical portrayals on TV," Ofcom said. "Parents in particular felt that TV has an important role today in providing positive role models in this respect, with the character Connell in BBC drama Normal People mentioned as an example."

THE WORLD FAMOUS AGONY Page

Dear Kelly,

MY wife is an escort and does most of her business from our house. She was a prostitute when we first met and I've no problem with it – she earns a good screw out of it and it keeps our heads above water financially and pays for a couple of good holidays each year.

More to the point, it's never really affected our relationship and sex life, which is good.

I usually go out when she "entertains", but one night last week I stayed in when she arrived home with two blokes.

They went upstairs and I heard her screaming "f**k me hard". I had a look at what was going on and saw that she had a cock in her gob and another in her fanny.

They were squeezing her tits and left her covered in spunk. Watching them with my wife turned me on.

Do you think I'm a perv?

DS, south London

Kelly says...

NO, you've just got an unusual marriage.

Dear Kelly,

MY wife started going to a gym a few months ago because – to be honest – she had turned into a bit of a porker.

Our lifestyle hadn't helped, we'd got into the habit of sitting in front of the telly watching box sets by the ton and stuffing our faces with pizzas and beers just about every night of the week.

Anyway, with plenty of determination it seemed to work. After a few months I could see the weight dropping off her.

The good thing was it did wonders for our sex life – we actually started doing it again as she got fitter.

Our nookie sessions got more and more intense until I was struggling to keep up. Then the other night she emerged from the shower starkers with her chuff shaven.

She said one of the girls down the gym had said it was cleaner. But I had a right rant because I preferred her hairy minge.

Am I being unreasonable?

MH, Somerset

Kelly says...

YES. Be grateful you're getting sex again.

Lesbo pals enjoy my cock when they fancy a change

Dear Kelly,

I'M a 36-year-old bloke and I split from my wife last year and moved to a new area.

The neighbours have a 19-year-old daughter who knocks about with a busty pal the same age.

I was having a bath the other evening when the doorbell rang. It was the teens and they asked me to get them a drink.

I got a stiffy straight away through my towel, which one of them whipped off before getting down on her knees and wrapping her lips around my cock.

She sucked me off while the other one pulled her G-string off and licked her mate's clit.

Then they swapped over and the other one got my knob in her gob and her sexy pal's tongue up her fanny.

They told me to lie back on the carpet while one of them straddled me and eased her pussy down on my rock-hard length.

She started to go like the clappers and the other girl knelt over my face so I could get my tongue up her slit.

It was an amazing shag, having both these teen stunnas at the same time.

But they have since told me they are lesbos and only have cock when they fancy a change.

Should I believe them?

Dance babe turns on my hubby... and me!

Dear Kelly,

RECENTLY my hubby came home from a night out with the lads so horny that before I could even blurt out "sober up" I was on the carpet with my knees either side of my ears. It was the best shag I'd had for ages, but it wasn't enough for him.

On the way upstairs he took me from behind on the landing, and once in bed he rammed his rock-hard cock home again from the front.

As we lay there sweating, he told me all about the raunchy girls he'd seen at a lap-dancing club.

Even at the thought of it, I could feel his cock starting to harden again.

I couldn't believe the effect it had had on him but still I was grateful, if a little sore, that he'd been there.

To give my fanny some relief, I took his prick in my mouth and proceeded to gobble.

Then I climbed on top of him and, in a grinding movement with my hips, rapidly brought him off again.

A day or two later my curiosity got the better of me and I went with a mate to the club to see for myself what it was all about. And I wasn't disappointed.

The girls were sensational and the effect they had on the blokes there was electrifying.

We were having a drink at the bar when one of the girls came over during her break and said she knew me.

Raunchy

Then I realised it was a friend I'd last seen 10 years before at university when we used to party together.

We had a great chat and I explained why I was there.

We laughed and joked and as we were leaving she offered to come round to my place and show me a few routines to get my husband fired up again.

When she called we had a few drinks and another chat and, behind closed curtains, stripped off to some raunchy music.

When we were both naked and close up, she kissed me full on the lips and I responded.

Her hands were down to my fanny in a flash and she fingered me to orgasm.

I returned the favour and after another kiss and a cuddle we licked each other out.

Later, I told my hubby, thinking it would turn him on, but instead he went mad at me, calling me a lesbian.

We are still shagging, but I'm seeing my girlfriend too.

What do you think I should do?

MG, Derbyshire

Kelly says...

CARRY on. It sounds great to me.

Dear Kelly,

Kinky outfits have spiced up sex life

Dear Kelly,

WHILE tidying up one day, I dug into the depths of my husband's wardrobe and found a stash of porn.

It was full of photos of men and women doing all kinds of things to each other and wearing outrageous outfits.

As I looked at the mags, I began to get aroused. In fact, it wasn't long before my hand slipped down my panties and I began to bring myself off.

When my husband got home I told him that I'd found his dirty little secret but that I didn't mind at all – in fact, he should have told me about it long before.

We had a long chat and agreed we shared a liking for kinky kit and that introducing it to our sex lives could really spice things up in the bedroom.

Thrust

So we decided we would experiment with a few outfits. We went to a sex shop and I was delighted with our purchases and could hardly wait to get home.

We burst through the door, shedding our clothes as we went. He put on a leather pouch and mask and I donned a basque. He tied my hands with a silk scarf and pushed me down on the bed.

He thrust into me doggy-style as I pulled aside his pouch, gripping his balls as he lashed into me.

We came together and I couldn't believe what my discovery in the wardrobe had led to.

Now I wonder if we can keep it up.

KIWI JOB: Halfpenny

Halfpenny signs deal in New Zealand

RUGBY UNION

LEIGH Halfpenny has joined New Zealand Super Rugby side Crusaders on a one-year deal after ending his Wales career.

The 101-times capped Halfpenny played his final Wales game on Saturday as Warren Gatland's side beat Barbarians 49-26 in Cardiff.

"I've always watched Super Rugby and the Crusaders are the team I've always followed," Halfpenny, 34, told the Christchurch-based club's website.

"I'm extremely grateful to have the opportunity to join one of the best clubs in the world and I can't wait to meet everyone.

"Rob Penney (head coach) and his team couldn't have been any more welcoming and I feel hugely honoured to be joining them.

"I've always loved the time I've spent in New Zealand on tour.

"It's a passionate rugby nation and I've always been made to feel very much at home there. My family and I are very excited about the move."

Halfpenny is third on the all-time list of men's points scorers for Wales with 801.

He made four Test appearances for the British and Irish Lions across the 2013 and 2017 tours, being named player of the series in the former following the tourists' 2-1 victory in Australia.

■ FORMER Wales fly-half and assistant coach Stephen Jones has landed a coaching role with Super Rugby side Moana Pasifika.

Jones won 104 caps, worked with Wales under Warren Gatland at the 2019 Rugby World Cup and was then part of Wayne Pivac's team before departing when Gatland returned for a second stint as Wales boss in December 2022.

The 45-year-old will take up a post of backs coach at the Auckland-based franchise.

"I am excited to join this organisation, and I am looking forward to the new challenges of the Super Rugby Pacific competition," Jones told the Moana Pasifika website.

"I am excited to bring my perspective to the style of rugby played in the Pacific and the southern hemisphere and help the next crop of Pasifika talent flourish."

SEND STOKES HOME!

Harmy wants Test skipper to make sure he's fit for series against India

By PAUL THOMAS

STEVE Harmison has called on England to send Ben Stokes home from the World Cup or risk losing their Test captain for the start of their forthcoming series in India.

Stokes has revealed he will have surgery on his longstanding left knee injury once England's tournament is over but, with the defending champions no longer able to reach the semi-finals, they could decide to cut their losses and bring things forward.

The first Test of a five-match series starts in Hyderabad on January 25, with training in Dubai beginning two weeks earlier, meaning Stokes is already on a tight recovery schedule for a major operation.

The 32-year-old's instincts will be to see a grim campaign through to the bitter end, with games against the Netherlands in Pune and Pakistan in Kolkata still to come, but former England quick Harmison feels decisive action is needed to take the decision out of his hands.

"I am amazed Ben is still in the country, I don't see any point in him being there," Harmison said.

"I'm sure that conversation has been had but it needs strong leadership. It needs someone to say, 'Ben, you're going home. Here's a ticket, there's the plane, get on it'.

"I think Rob Key, as director of cricket, should probably take that decision and if I was (Test coach) Brendon McCullum I'd be doing everything I could to encourage him. I've got a good relationship with Ben and I know for a fact he won't thank me for saying this, but I'm saying it because it's what is best for the England cricket team.

"He has the chance to get a 10-day head start and it's common sense to take it. You never know what they are going to find with a big op, or what the rehab looks like. So give yourself the extra time because it could be the difference between being fit for the first Test or third."

Important

Despite his fitness struggles, Stokes has led England in all 18 games since he took over the red-ball reins from Joe Root. His bold, aggressive captaincy style has helped rebuild the side in a completely fresh image and Harmison cannot imagine taking on India in their own back yard without him at the vanguard.

"The single most important person in that Test setup is Ben Stokes. They need their leader and that's why he has to go home," said Harmison.

"This tour is going to be twice as hard as the Ashes given the conditions, so he's going to be more important than ever."

Harmison also called on England to put their faith in Harry Brook for the last two games of the World Cup, with the rising star bafflingly kept on the sidelines for three games despite repeated batting failures.

"I struggle to understand how Brook doesn't get on. I know we've been picking world champions but they're not playing at a champions' level," he said.

"England should have been brave enough to say, 'this bloke needs to play'. We are talking about someone who is the best we've produced in a long time. He's not the finished article by any means but he probably makes our best XI.

"The problem is England are

T KEEPS ROLLING ALONG

STRUGGLE: Stokes needs an op before the India Test series starts

FOCUSED: Coach Hopkinson

Lions up for wooden spoon showdown

ENGLAND'S early exit from the World Cup is already guaranteed but assistant coach Carl Hopkinson insists their bottom-of-the-table clash against the Netherlands is no "dead rubber".

As the tournament edges towards the business end, the champions have lost six of their seven games and saw their last mathematical chance of a miracle wiped off the table by rivals Australia in Ahmedabad last week.

The best they can hope for now is avoiding a first ever ODI defeat to the Dutch, the only associate nation competing in India, and keep their prospects of reaching the 2025 Champions Trophy alive.

They need a top-eight finish to book their spot, meaning there is no leeway for wallowing in their dreadful form when they take the field in Pune on Wednesday.

Motivation

The appearance of Hopkinson, a low-key member of the backroom team responsible primarily for fielding, suggested the squad were not keen on issuing their own public call to arms, but he has no qualms about their motivation.

"I don't think there's ever a dead rubber when you play for England, to be honest. I think the lads are up for it," he said.

"We've got two games in which we need to win both to qualify for the Champions Trophy, so I think that's there for everybody to see."

"The guys are going to be obviously massively up for it and I think we'll be good."

"We need to win and win well to qualify for the Champions Trophy, which is what we need to do."

On his unexpected role as carrier of the England message, he added: "I'm not quite sure why I'm the man to explain, (but) I'm an assistant coach with the England team and I'm more than happy to come out and speak about our campaign so far."

England have named an unchanged side for the last three games, losing emphatically to Sri Lanka, India and Australia, and could mix things up.

Harry Brook is on hand to add ballast to a badly under-performing top six, but could be added in place of all-rounder Liam Livingstone rather than one of the specialist batters.

Livingstone adds an extra spin option but has not been able to carry his share of the run-scoring load, with just 60 runs in six innings.

Pace bowler Mark Wood, who has been managing a sore knee, could also miss out with Brydon Carse and Gus Atkinson snapping at his heels for a chance.

Wood is the fastest seamer in the squad by a distance, consistently clearing 90mph, but has struggled to keep a lid on his economy rate and has only six wickets at 58.16.

Carse and Atkinson are both likely to form part of England's white-ball future, leaving captain Jos Buttler and coach Matthew Mott to decide whether now is the time to blood them in a game with live stakes.

Ben Stokes' fitness was under observation on the eve of the match, with the Test captain carrying various niggles.

He missed the first three games here with a hip problem and is set to undergo surgery on his long-standing left-knee injury when he gets back to England to be fit for the next series against India.

picking names who haven't performed and hoping it gets better. One bad game turns to two, two turns to three. It needs leadership and a bit of bravery to make a big decision."

Vice-captain Moeen Ali has urged England to rebuild their ageing team after the World Cup, claiming "the writing was on the wall and we just didn't see it".

Time

Moeen was part of a golden generation who became world champions on home soil in 2019 and are likely to go down as the country's best ever white-ball side, but their story is ending in disarray.

For the last three games England have fielded a side entirely of over-thirties.

Back in 2015 Eoin Morgan led a similar renewal, strikingly calling time on the vastly experienced James Anderson and Stuart Broad. And Moeen, the oldest player in the squad at 36, realises that time has caught up with them.

"I think everything good comes to an end at some point," he said. "Maybe the writing was on the wall and we just didn't see it as players because we thought we'd be performing well."

"I think if I was in charge I'd play the younger guys, I'd just start again and I'm sure they're going to do that. It's common sense more than anything. You want that fearless approach and it's a great time to start again."

Jonny Bairstow and Joe Root are among the stalwarts who have publicly said they want to carry on in 50-over cricket, but Moeen appears ready to step away with no grudges.

"I'm obviously going to speak to Jos Buttler and Motty (head coach Matthew Mott) and see what they want from me, whether they want me around or whatever," he said.

"I don't know. If they say, 'look we're going to go with younger players and start again' then I'm more than happy. I get it, I understand and like I said, everything good comes to an end at some point."

England could choose to start the regeneration process immediately, with Harry Brook (24), Sam Curran (25), Gus Atkinson (25) and Brydon Carse (28) all waiting in the wings in the current squad.

Bringing Brook back into a top six that has repeatedly fallen short appears the most obvious move but England may find it hard to shrug off their conservatism by making wholesale changes against the Netherlands on Wednesday.

Wane delight as Tongans get tonked

RUGBY LEAGUE

ENGLAND boss Shaun Wane admitted he wanted to clinch a series whitewash over Tonga "so badly" following their 26-4 victory at Headingley.

The hosts were keen to secure a clean sweep from the start of the tie and scored twice inside 26 minutes thanks to Ben Currie and Matty Ashton.

Both teams finished the half with a temporary man less after Matty Lees and Keon Koloamatangi were sent to the sin bin for a scuffle which caused a mass brawl.

Wane was proud of his players throughout the series and thinks they deserve full credit for a 3-0 success.

He said: "Unbelievable approach what we've done and how we've done it. I've nothing but praise for the players. I so badly wanted to win this game, no matter what. Two-nil didn't matter to me, so to win in this fashion is great. I was desperate.

"You look at how the players have behaved and I think they've been outstanding and they'll go from strength to strength.

"We stuck to our task well and they can play, athletic, big, they tested us, but the desire to defend and the detail was absolutely outstanding.

"We've got a really good team spirit, it's like a club team. We spend time with each other and there is no cliques and that's been the most satisfying thing for me."

Wane still has nightmares about England's World Cup semi-final defeat last year but insists his side will now get stronger and did not think they would limit Tonga to just five tries in three games.

He added: "It will always haunt me, it doesn't make it better, but how we played that game will always be there.

"I never thought we could manage that (five tries in three games). You look at their talent, that was a tough ask and you look at the physical side, big athletes, so to do that, the credit the players deserve is untrue.

"I'd love to do another three weeks. I'm back to walking my dogs next week and I'd love to do another three weeks. We've had a great time.

"When you score tries like that, it beggars belief when you hear stupid comments about us not being entertaining."

Tonga boss Kristian Woolf handed full credit to England following the defeat but was proud of his team.

He said: "England were exceptionally good. Sometimes you have to sit back and applaud the tries they came up with, good tries and some good plays, they did a good job of scrambling.

"We didn't deserve the scoreline if you look at the effort, I was proud.

"We showed up with a great attitude and I thought we showed that throughout the game and when the score looked like it could have blown out we hung in, we kept defending and trying to find points.

"We were disappointed to go down 3-0, there's no doubt about that, and we're certainly disappointed in the scoreline, but I'm not disappointed with the way our group have come over here. They have put their footy first and I'm very proud of them as a group of players."

ALL THE TOP TIPS FOR TODAY'S RACING

FIDELIO VALLIS

FIDELIO LOOKS HOT FOR HARRY

HARRY Derham has operated a good strike-rate during his short training career and can enhance it with FIDELIO VALLIS at Musselburgh.

Derham picked up plenty of useful tips during six years as assistant to Paul Nicholls and he has also taken some decent horses with him to Lambourn from Ditchheat.

Fidelio Vallis claimed six wins for the champion trainer, including a four-time over fences in the spring of 2021.

The eight-year-old switched to Derham following an injury lay-off and was a fine second to Pay The Piper in the Scottish Champion Handicap Chase at this venue in February following over 400 days on the sidelines.

Although subsequently forced to sit out the rest of the season, Fidelio Vallis showed enough at Musselburgh to suggest there are more races to be won with him, thoroughly enjoying himself out in front for much of the way.

Derham was on target with another former Nicholls inmate when Sir Psycho struck at Ascot on Saturday, so the omens are good for this likeable gelding making a successful reappearance in the Prince Philip Perpetual Challenge Trophy Handicap Chase.

Union Flag looks a useful recruit for Donald McCain and is fancied to score on his British debut in the Watch Racing TV Free Introductory Juvenile Hurdle.

The three-year-old had some fair form on the Flat for Noel Meade in Ireland and shaped with promise on his sole start over timber at Cork last month.

He hit the front on the run-in that day but eventually had to settle for third place in a tight finish, so this sharp track should hopefully suit.

At Chepstow, Tahmuras makes his debut over fences for Nicholls in the Go Racing With Vickers bet Novices Limited Handicap Chase.

The six-year-old claimed Grade One glory in the Tolworth Novices' Hurdle at Sandown last term, when the reopposing Colonel Harry was well held in fourth.

Tahmuras found the pace too hot in the Supreme at Cheltenham and and at Aintree but remains a horse with potential and he has always looked likely to flourish over bigger obstacles.

There are several

TRAINER:
Derham

interesting types in the Chepstow National Hunt Flat Race, but none more so than the JP McManus-owned French import Jacobin for Nicholls, who is certainly bred for the job.

Warwick's feature race, the Ignite Incentives Handicap Chase, can go to the hat-trick seeking Jet Plane for Dan and Harry Skelton.

He signed off last season by making all at Ludlow and returned to action with a smooth success in a competitive Newton Abbot contest.

Jet Plane was brought through to lead approaching the final fence that day and sealed victory with a fine jump, suggesting there is still lots more left in the tank.

There is a valuable prize up for grabs at Kempton's all-weather evening meeting in the Unibet London Spirit Series (Final) Handicap and Fresh gets the nod.

James Fanshawe's charge has been thereabouts in some big races on turf this term, including when a close fifth of 27 in the Wokingham at Royal Ascot, and is a proven performer on this surface.

Luis in a safe place at Anfield says Virgil

LIVERPOOL PLAYERS RALLY ROUND COLOMBIAN AFTER FAMILY HORROR

VIRGIL VAN DIJK says Liverpool's players have created a "safe place" for Luis Diaz in the days since his father was kidnapped in Colombia.

The 26-year-old came off the bench in the 83rd minute of the team's 1-1 draw with Luton on Sunday and scored a dramatic equaliser deep into added time.

It was his first appearance since his father, Luis Manuel Diaz, was abducted on October 28.

The striker was absent for Liverpool's wins over Forest and Bournemouth but marked a sensational return to action by heading in Harvey Elliott's cross five minutes into stoppage time at Kenilworth Road.

Van Dijk said: "He's been training with us, knowing that it's so fresh, what's going on. He feels like being with us is a safe place, so it helps him."

"We're here for him. We mentioned it last week, it's an absolutely horrible situation. Hopefully there will be a solution. We'll be here for him and everybody should support him. Hopefully it will be sorted as soon as possible."

By PAUL THOMAS

Liverpool had looked set to fall to a shock defeat before Diaz's late intervention, falling behind 10 minutes from time to a goal by Luton substitute Tahith Chong.

"He's still disappointed because he also wanted to win," said Van Dijk.

"There's a lot of emotions in his head. It must have been (meant to be) that he should have scored. I'm happy for him, but hopefully we can get his father back as soon as possible."

"You can't imagine it, that's the scary part. The only thing we can do is hope they will find him safe and sound and they get him back to his family."

"When it happened it was a shock to everyone. We spoke and it should give us extra motivation. He doesn't want us to suffer from what he's going through, he wants us to take fuel from it."

The rebel group holding Diaz's father claim military action in the local area is not only delaying the release of their hostage but putting him at risk.

Diaz's parents were kidnapped over a week ago – his mother was freed quickly – and despite pledges from the National Liberation Army of Colombia to expedite the return of Diaz Sr, it is taking longer than expected.

"On November 2, we informed the country of the decision to release Mr Luis Manuel Diaz, father of the player Luis Diaz," said a statement, signed by unit leader Commander Jose Manuel Martinez Quiroz, released to Colombian media.

Troops

"From that date, we began the process to accomplish this as soon as possible. We are making efforts to avoid incidents with government forces."

"The area is still militarised, they are carrying out flyovers, disembarking troops, broadcasting and offering rewards as part of an intense search operation."

"This situation is not allowing for the execution of the release plan quickly and safely, where Mr Luis Manuel Diaz is not at risk. "If operations continue in the area, they will delay the release and increase risks."

"We understand the anguish of the Diaz-Marulanda family, to whom we say that we will keep our word to release him unilaterally, as soon as we have security guarantees for the development of the liberation operation."

Diaz made an emotional plea for his father's return at Luton before lifting his shirt to display the message 'Libertad para Papa' (Freedom for dad).

The winger, who was making his first appearance since the kidnappings, then posted a message on Instagram in which he said: "I ask the ELN for the prompt release of my father, and I ask international organisations to work together for his freedom."

"Every second, every minute, our anguish grows. My mother, my brothers and I are desperate, distressed and without words to describe what we are feeling. This suffering will only end when we have him back home."

"I beg you to release him immediately, respecting his integrity and ending this painful wait as soon as possible."

Solidarity

"In the name of love and compassion, we ask that you reconsider your actions and allow us to recover him."

"I thank Colombians and the international community for the support received, thank you."

for so many demonstrations of affection and solidarity in this difficult time that many families in my country find themselves living."

MISFIRING CHELSEA STAR FINALLY FINDING HIS FEET

CHELSEA striker Nicolas Jackson promised to work even harder after his hat-trick earned manager Mauricio Pochettino a statement victory at former club Tottenham.

Jackson's second-half treble settled a pulsating London derby where five goals were disallowed and red cards were shown to Spurs pair Cristian Romero and Destiny Udogie either side of half-time.

While Chelsea were far from vintage on their way to a 4-1 win, Jackson eventually made the difference.

The Senegal attacker side-footed home his first goal in the 75th minute from Raheem Sterling's cross before he grabbed a similar second after Conor Gallagher's pass and completed his treble in the seventh minute of stoppage time when he rounded Guglielmo Vicario.

After receiving more yellow cards (five) than goals (three) during the first three months of the campaign, the £31million summer signing from Villarreal was pleased to start to pay back his price tag on Monday night.

Jackson: "Yeah, very happy."

"It was a difficult time for everybody in the team, but now we are coming back slowly, slowly and I am very happy to score three goals."

"It has been very difficult (for me) but life is like this. Now my first hat-trick and I am very happy I did it in the biggest club in England and everywhere."

Dreaming

"Always need to improve, always need to work harder. We continue working and now this (hat-trick) is the past, so we forget about it and move forward."

"We were dreaming about this, playing big games and winning big games. Now we continue to work hard and the confidence is coming slowly, slowly."

Chelsea's youthful side had struggled for consistency during the early months of Pochettino's tenure, with battling draws against Liverpool and Arsenal married with home defeats to Nottingham Forest and Brentford.

Pochettino watched the Blues struggle to make their numerical advantage count against Tottenham until captain Reece James played through Sterling, who squared for Jackson to slide home with quarter of an hour left in N17.

Next up for the 10th-placed Blues is the visit of champions Manchester City on Sunday, which means a reunion for Cole Palmer against his old club.

Palmer, who took his Chelsea goal to three with the equaliser against Spurs, said: "This was a big game, we knew it was before we came into it."

"Big stadium and obviously they were unbeaten, but we thought we could come here and get a result and we did that."

"Obviously it is easier to play against nine men, but we knew we needed to win the game when they went down to 10 and then when they went down to nine especially."

"We knew we needed to

ANGE SUPPORTS UNDER-FIRE REFS

ANGE Postecoglou is unhappy that VAR has ruined the authority of referees after his nine-man Tottenham lost 4-1 to Chelsea.

A frenetic meeting between the two rivals saw five disallowed goals, two red cards, a penalty and two Spurs players forced off during the first half with injury, as Blues boss Mauricio Pochettino marked his return to north London by ending the Premier League's last unbeaten record.

But the match was dominated by VAR's involvement with the red cards two of nine decisions referred to the video referee. Even with nine men the hosts continued to take the game to Chelsea and were well in the contest before Nicolas Jackson twice sprung their high line in stoppage time to add his team's third and fourth goals and complete an unlikely hat-trick.

Postecoglou's team had been comfortably on top in the first half before Cristian Romero's red card in the 33rd minute, dismissed for a dangerous challenge on Enzo Fernandez and conceding the penalty from which Cole Palmer equalised. Dejan Kulusevski's deflected goal.

Destiny Udogie followed 10 minutes into the second half, receiving a second yellow for a foul on Raheem Sterling, but it took a further 20 minutes before Chelsea finally took the lead for the first time through Jackson.

Spurs' night was compounded by the loss of James Maddison and Micky van de Ven to injury, on top of what is likely to be a three-game ban for Romero.

Disappointing

But it was VAR's impact that dominated Postecoglou's thoughts after the game after a total of 21 minutes were added on at the end of each half.

"It's hard to analyse from a football perspective," he said.

"We're left with a result which is disappointing, but (I'm) super-proud of the players' efforts and will and desire to get something from the game.

"(Lengthy VAR pauses) are going to become the norm, I think it's where the game is heading. Unfortunately it's how we're going to have to watch and participate in football from now on. I don't like it. I don't like the standing around, the whole theatre around waiting for decisions. But I know I'm in the wilderness on that.

BACKING:
Postecoglou

"In my 26 years, I was always prepared to accept the referee's decision, good, bad or otherwise, and I've had some shockers in my career. I've had some go my way as well.

"I'll cop that stick because I just want the game to be played.

"But when we're complaining about decisions every week, this is what's going to happen.

"People are going to forensically scrutinise everything to make sure they're comfortable it's right, and even at the end of that, we're still not happy.

"It's just diminishing the authority of the referee. You can't tell me referees are in control of games. They're not.

"Control is outside of that, but that's where the game's going. You have to accept it and try and deal with it."

LEON Balogun believes momentum is key as Rangers prepare for Thursday's Europa League clash against Sparta Prague after winning through to the first cup final of the season.

The Light Blues are on a high following their convincing 3-1 Viaplay Cup semi-final win over Hearts at Hampden Park on Sunday.

Group C is finely balanced after three fixtures with Real Betis top with six points, Sparta Prague and Rangers on four and Aris Limassol on three.

The 35-year-old Nigeria international spoke of the importance of continuing the good form, saying: "I think it is quite clear what we are trying to achieve this season, the manager said it himself, he wants to win everything possible and that's the target."

"But you are only as good as your last game and we need to knock one game out after another and make sure performances are at the right level."
